Preface.

New York long ago ceased to belong to the New Yorkers. It has come to belong to the country at large. Every first-class country, when it reaches a certain stage of development, is bound to evolve a central point as a great national rendezvous for exchange and distribution—in short, for clearing-house purposes in a variety of directions. The European world, in developing national centers like London, Paris, Berlin, and Vienna, has now been followed by the United States in the development of New York.

In earlier days, before New York had gained this kind of primacy, people came here to identify themselves with the town, and in so doing to lose altogether their identity with the places from which they came. In this later stage, however—where New York no longer belongs to New Yorkers but to the whole country, and where it becomes necessary for almost every large business to have its New York office, and for men of diverse or widespread interests to spend more or less of their time in New York—it has become entirely possible as well as highly proper that men should preserve their identity with the States or sections from which they come, while assuming their fair share of responsibility for the metropolis itself. Thus it has come to pass that in recent years there has been a large growth of organizations and societies recognizing the desirability of preserving the home feeling and connection. The New England Society, of course, is of venerable origin, and the Southern Society is of ever-swelling dimensions. The Ohio Society and the Pennsylvania Society have become bodies of influence, prestige, and importance.

Besides these four, several other State societies have been formed, and among the most hopeful of these is the Minnesota Society, which is meant to include not merely the native sons of the splendid State at the headwaters of the Mississippi, but also all others who by virtue of years of residence and activity in Minnesota, or of other vital connection with the State, feel that it is both grateful and pleasant to avow and to preserve the memory of life spent in the State and of association with Minnesota's men of affairs.

Where the nation has developed a real metropolis, the centripetal forces are bound to draw from every State a quota of active and energetic men to do their share of the business at the center of things. Minnesota has, for a young State, certainly been drawn upon by New York for its full share. When in 1901 the Minnesota Society was tentatively organized, its projectors had in sight about fifty possible members. But in due time they found that there were in New York and vicinity a possible membership of several hundred eligible and desirable men. Of these the club has made a list of more than 300, of whom, at present, 128 have definitely joined the Society as resident members. There are, furthermore, a large number of well-known Minnesota men in public life, business life, and professional life, whose affairs frequently bring them to New York, and 137 of these are now enrolled by the Minnesota Society of New York as non-resident members. It is hoped that the resident membership may in the near future grow to at least 200, and that the non-resident membership may keep even pace.

The first dinner of Minnesotians was held in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, April 23, 1902, Mr. Alvin W. Krech presiding. The invitations to this dinner read as follows:

*You are cordially invited to attend the
FIRST ANNUAL DINNER
of MINNESOTIANS
Now resident in New York City,
at seven o'clock,
Wednesday evening, April the twenty-third,
nineteen hundred and two,
Waldorf-Astoria.*

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

WILLIAM H. TRUESDALE,
President, Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad.

JACOB L. GREATSINGER,
President, Brooklyn Rapid Transit.

FREDERICK D. UNDERWOOD,
President, Erie Railroad.

ALVIN W. KRECH,
Vice-President, The Mercantile Trust Company.

FRANCIS F. McIVER (Secretary), at Sutro Bros. and Company.

CHARLES A. TOWNE,
President, Charles A. Towne Company.

FRANKLIN W. M. CUTCHEON, of Hornblower, Byrne, Miller and Potter.

CHARLES M. PALMER,
Publisher.

DON H. BACON,
President, Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company.

WILLIAM B. T. KEYSER (Treasurer),
Cashier, Merchants' National Bank.

Interesting speeches were made by ex-Governor Wm. R. Merriam of Minnesota, Mr. Charles A. Towne, Mr. Alvin W. Krech, Capt. Henry A. Castle and C. A. Severance.

Out of this occasion grew the formal organization of this Society, which began its series of annual dinners at the Waldorf-Astoria on November 10, 1902, on which occasion Mr. Frank F. Davis presided and important addresses were made by Dr. Albert Shaw, Archbishop Ireland, Mr. Wheeler H. Peckham, Rev. Dr. James Burrill.

On April 23, 1903, at the same place, a meeting of this Society was held for annual election of officers with a "Grill" supper and a programme of entertainment. Souvenir steins, designed especially for the occasion, were distributed amongst those present.

The beginnings of the Minnesota Society have been most favorably noted by the press of St. Paul and Minneapolis and of the entire State, and have also been recognized with equal goodwill by the newspapers of New York. It is confidently believed that the Society can be made not only useful and agreeable to its members, but also in incidental ways worthy of consideration by the State and people of Minnesota. The constant growth of the State in prosperity and in all the attributes of a splendid commonwealth is always noted with satisfaction by the speakers at the reunions of the Society.

Constitution
OF THE Minnesota Society of New York.

ARTICLE I.

Name.

This organization shall be known as the MINNESOTA SOCIETY OF NEW YORK.

ARTICLE II.

Object.

Its purpose shall be to cultivate social intercourse among its members, to advance their common interests, and to preserve pleasant memories of the State of Minnesota.

ARTICLE III.

Membership.

SECTION 1. There shall be three classes of members: Active, non-resident, and honorary.

SECTION 2. Any male person over eighteen years of age residing in the City of New York or within a distance of twenty-five miles therefrom who is a native, or descendant of a native of the State of Minnesota, or who was a resident of Minnesota for a continuous period of two years, may be admitted as an active member.

SECTION 3. Any male person over eighteen years of age, otherwise qualified for active membership, but not residing in the City of New York nor within the distance of twenty-five miles therefrom, may be admitted as a non-resident member.

SECTION 4. Any male person over eighteen years of age whose distinction shall, in the opinion of three-fourths of the Governing Committee, merit, may be admitted as an honorary member, but not more than four such members shall be admitted within one year.

SECTION 5. Non-resident and honorary members shall be entitled to all the privileges of the Society, except they shall not vote or hold office.

ARTICLE IV.

Government.

SECTION 1. The Government of this Society shall be vested in a President, four Vice-Presidents, a Secretary, a Treasurer, and nine Trustees. The Board of Trustees together with the President and Secretary shall be the Governing Committee.

SECTION 2. The Governing Committee shall appoint from its own number or from the Society at large the committees needful for the business of the Society, and it may declare and fill vacancies at any time in any committee.

ARTICLE V.

Officers.

SECTION 1. The President, or in his absence one of the Vice-Presidents, shall preside at all meetings of the Society and of the Governing Committee and give the casting vote in case of tie. The President shall with the Secretary sign all written contracts and obligations of the Society.

SECTION 2. The Secretary shall keep a true record of all meetings of the Society and of the Governing Committee; shall keep a correct roll of the members of the Society; shall be the legal custodian of all papers, documents, and records of the Society; shall conduct the correspondence of the Society and of the Governing Committee; shall notify members of their election; issue and send the members notices of all meetings of the Society and of the Governing Committee and all other notices required by the Constitution and

By-Laws, and discharge such other duties as may be assigned to him by the Society or the President.

SECTION 3. The Treasurer shall receive the funds of the Society and disburse them under the direction of the Governing Committee. His reports and accounts shall be audited by the Governing Committee.

SECTION 4. The Governing Committee shall manage the general affairs of the Society subject to such instructions and limitations as may be prescribed by the Society. It shall control and manage the property of the Society and enforce obedience to its rules. It shall approve all expenditures and contracts. It shall at each annual meeting make a full report of its proceedings. It shall meet upon the call of the President or at the request in writing of six members thereof, and seven members thereof shall be necessary to constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, but a lesser number shall have power to adjourn.

ARTICLE VI.

Dues.

SECTION 1. Each active member of the Society shall pay to the Treasurer an entrance fee of five dollars and annual dues of five dollars.

SECTION 2. Each non-resident member of the Society shall pay to the Treasurer an entrance fee of five dollars and annual dues of two dollars.

SECTION 3. Honorary members shall be exempt from the payment of fees and dues.

SECTION 4. All annual dues shall be due and payable on Jan. 1st in each year, and any member failing to pay such annual dues or any other indebtedness to the Society for two months after the same shall be due, may be suspended or expelled from the Society by the Governing Committee.

SECTION 5. The entrance fee shall be due and payable at once upon the receipt by the member of notice of his election.

ARTICLE VII.

Meetings.

SECTION 1. The annual meeting of the Society shall be held on the second Tuesday of the month of April.

SECTION 2. Special meetings of the Society may be called from time to time by the President on the written request of four members of the Governing Committee or of fifteen active members; twenty-five members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, but a less number may adjourn from time to time to a day certain.

SECTION 3. Notice of all meetings shall be mailed at least three days before the day fixed therefor.

ARTICLE VIII.

Nominations.

SECTION 1. At least thirty days prior to the annual meeting the Governing Committee shall meet to recommend candidates for the offices to be filled at the succeeding annual election.

SECTION 2. The Governing Committee shall send by mail a copy of a complete ticket for the offices to be filled to each member at least fifteen days prior to the election.

ARTICLE IX.

Elections.

Immediately after the adoption of this constitution and at all subsequent annual meetings all the officers of the Society and the members of the Governing Committee shall be elected for the term of one year, but the term of every officer shall continue until his successor has been elected and installed. All vacancies occurring during the year among the officers and members of the Governing Committee by resignation or otherwise may be filled for the unexpired term by the Governing Committee.

ARTICLE X.

Suspensions and Resignations.

SECTION 1. The Governing Committee may by a vote of seven of its members at a meeting thereof suspend any member of the Society who in their judgment shall have been guilty of conduct warranting such action. Such suspension shall continue until the next annual meeting of the Society, when, unless the same be then revoked by vote of a majority of the active members present, such suspended member shall cease to be a member of the Society. Due notice of the cause of such suspension shall be given to such member, who shall have an opportunity to be heard by the Governing Committee before suspension, and by the Society at its next annual meeting.

SECTION 2. All resignations shall be made in writing to the Secretary to be acted on by the Governing Committee, but such resignation shall not be accepted until all indebtedness to the Society by the resigning member shall have been discharged.

ARTICLE XI.

Amendments.

This Constitution may be amended at any annual meeting of the Society by an affirmative vote of three-fourths of the active members present, provided notice of such proposed amendment be mailed at least fifteen days before the date of such annual meeting to each active member at his address as the same shall appear on the membership book of the Society.

ARTICLE XII.

By-Laws.

The Governing Committee shall be authorized to promulgate a code of By-Laws for the Society and to alter, amend, or repeal any part of the same, subject always to the right of the Society at any meeting called for the purpose to reject the same.
